

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY
Your next year will be eventful with success in proportion to the care and foresight which you exercise. Especially in home matters should you be thoughtful.
Those born today will have brilliant qualities, which will gain them friends in high places and will also cause envious ones to become their enemies. A frank, straightforward course is better for them than too much subtlety. (April 29.)

SAW DRY FARMS OF CURLEW VALLEY

That the thousands of acres of available lands in the vicinity of Promontory and Curlew valley offer great opportunities to dry farmers is the opinion of C. E. Kaiser and John Pingree who returned from a trip of investigation through that district Sunday night. Although both are interested in the Promontory-Curlew lands, neither had visited the holdings before and were exceedingly pleased with what they saw.

During the trip, they met many people who formerly lived in the vicinity of Ogden, and the success of these former Ogdenites has made them enthusiastic boosters for the country.

While much of the country is suitable only for dry farms, there are districts where water is available for irrigation.

Mr. Pingree, Mr. Kaiser and H. B. Cramer left Ogden last Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Mr. Kaiser's automobile. They reached Garland that evening and remained there that night, leaving early Sunday morning for their trip of inspection of the holdings.

They passed through the Blue Springs district which is irrigated and has been taken up by farmers for some time. They found the farmers in a most prosperous condition, with good prospects for the coming year.

After leaving that district they paid a visit to the townsite of Howell, named after Congressman Joseph Howell who was largely instrumental in opening up the land. In the Hensel valley they were in the midst of a successful dry-farming district and passed through that into the Curlew valley.

The Curlew valley is sparsely settled but a great future is predicted for the reason that the land is excellent for dry farming purposes and the Burley cutoff of the Oregon Short Line will pass through the valley. The members of the party observed that the sage growing in that valley was large, showing the land to be capable of producing dry-farming crops. There are more than 200,000 acres of this kind of land available.

Returning, they visited Pilot Springs and came home by way of Corinne and Brigham.

In all, they traveled about 225 miles in the automobile and found the roads to be in fairly good condition.

CONSUMPTION OF WOOD IN UTAH

During the past winter, the Ogden office of the forest service made a general study of the consumption of wood material in Utah and southern Idaho for the year 1912. This study showed that a surprisingly large amount of lumber and other wood material is used in this region. The results of the study are, of course, approximate, but forest service officials believe them to represent quite closely the total consumption. In southern Idaho is included all of the state south of the Salmon river.

In the State of Utah the investigations showed that during 1912 approximately 204,000,000 feet of lumber, railroad ties, mine and other miscellaneous timbers were consumed. In addition to the above, approximately 85,000,000 shingles, 25,000,000 lath and 80,000 split cedar posts were used in Utah. Based on the population of Utah, as given in the census for 1910, the per capita consumption during the year was approximately 585 feet board measure, exclusive of lath, shingles and split cedar posts.

The consumption of wood material southern Idaho for the same year was approximately 152,000,000 feet B. M. of lumber, railroad ties, mine and other miscellaneous timbers and 75,000,000 shingles, 17,000,000 lath and 275,000 split cedar posts. This represents a per capita consumption for southern Idaho of approximately 590 feet board measure, exclusive of lath, shingles and split cedar posts.

OPENING GAME OF LEAGUE SEASON

Although a rather stiff wind was blowing and did not make the day an ideal one for baseball, a large crowd of enthusiastic fans went to Glenwood park this afternoon to see the opening game of the Union association in Ogden with Ogden and Butte as the contesting teams. Preceding the game there was a parade of automobiles in which rode the ball players of both teams, headed by a battalion of high school cadets in full uniform and a column of police.

The parade formed on Grant avenue in front of the Weber club, shortly after 2 o'clock. Several hundred people gathered to see the players at close range and were favored with the presence of 35 of the finest looking ball players in the country.

The players of both teams were dressed in their new uniforms which were worn for the first time today. The Ogden men have white uniforms with red trimmings and the word "Ogden" written across the breast. Their caps are red with white stripes along the seams and their stockings are pinstriped red and white.

The Butte boys looked handsome in dark gray uniforms with red caps. Each man wore a maroon mackinaw in place of a sweater.

Manager Knight assured the fans, however, that Butte is not to be the only team with such novel coats, for the same garments have been ordered for the Ogden players and will be here this week.

The battalion of cadets added tone and color to the parade. The officers wore their dress uniforms of white duck trousers with regulation coats, and in addition had white pompons on their caps. The privates wore the white cross bands and each cap had a short pompon mounted upon the visor. All privates carried guns with shining barrels and the officers shouldered glittering swords.

Martial music was furnished by the drum and bugle corps of the school, who followed directly behind the column of police.

There were eight automobiles, in which rode the players, and following these autos came the citizens in automobiles.

After parading the streets the order was given to proceed to the grounds, where the field was soon lively with the players warming up.

Special street cars, using the new double track, gave good service to the large number of fans who went out by means of the company's lines.

A. P. Bigelow, president of the Ogden Baseball association, was unable to attend the opening game because of illness.

In Salt Lake.

Salt Lake City, April 29.—Despite a wind which blew at times with great velocity, a record crowd gathered at the Union association baseball park today to see the opening game of the season between Great Falls and Salt Lake City.

USE OF CITY SCHOOL FUNDS

In explanation of the methods by which funds are secured to redeem bonds similar to those to be issued should the citizens vote in favor of a gymnasium, the following is given out by the board of education:

The business of the school board is conducted with five funds, one of which, the sinking fund, is secured by a direct tax on city property. This fund is used to pay off the bonded indebtedness of the school system and is a special fund for the redemption of funds only. By means of this special tax the board was able to redeem $15,000 of the outstanding bonds last December.

The teachers' fund is used only for the payment of teachers' salaries. The other funds are for maintenance and new buildings, and a fifth fund is for paying interest on the bonded indebtedness.

Chicago, April 29.—"The Huerta government in Mexico probably will be overthrown within two weeks," said Robert J. Kerr, an attorney, who recently came from Mexico, in an address before the Rotary club today. "The situation there is far more serious than Americans realize. It is vastly more important to this country than is the Balkan situation. Americans are forced to flee from Mexico because the American flag is not as much respected there as are the flags of other countries, and Americans, if they remain, don't know whether they will be able to procure damages for their ruined property."

Los Angeles, Cal., April 29.—George H. Bixby, the millionaire named in connection with white slavery developments here, did not become the star witness before the county grand jury today. He was called as a witness but he remained in the grand jury room only 12 minutes.

The fact that Bixby remained in the grand jury room so short a time led to the supposition that he had not testified at all, by virtue of the privilege conferred by the penal code, which provides that a person named in charges under investigation cannot be forced to testify without being given immunity.

BRITAIN'S ULTIMATUM

Long Standing Claims of British Citizens Against Guatemala Have Been Irritating to Both the United States and England

London, April 29.—The British government today denied the published report that it had sent an ultimatum to Guatemala. At the foreign office it was said that all that had been done so far was to make a renewed presentation of Great Britain's demand for the payment of Guatemala's indebtedness, the bulk of which has been owing for 25 years.

Long Standing Indebtedness.
Washington, April 29.—Great Britain again is pressing Guatemala for satisfaction of the long standing claims of British subjects. The attention of the state department has been directed to the situation by the Guatemalan minister here and the outcome is expected to develop in some measure an indication of the administration's policy toward Central American republics and their foreign debts. A loan of $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 by American banking houses has been under way for some time, but never consummated. With its proceeds, it was proposed to pay Guatemala's debts and reform her currency system. The delay has been irritating to both the United States and Great Britain.
